No boating in Ranganathittu

Rain picks up pace in Kodagu; cloud-seeding operations from Mysuru from July 24

A giant tree crashed on the Mysuru-Gonikoppal Highway near Thithimathi last evening as rain picked up pace in Kodagu yesterday. Three vehicles were damaged in the incident. Amidst rain, the State Government is launching cloud-seeding operations. [See also page 7]

Mysuru, July 21 (OSR)- Boating operations have been suspended at Ranganathittu Bird Sanctuary from yesterday for an indefinite period as the flow in the Cauvery has significantly increased.

The bird sanctuary is located on the banks of River Cauvery downstream of KRS reservoir near Srirangapatna and once water is released from the reservoir, it gushes downstream resulting in the increase of water level of the river in the sanctuary and the Forest Department, keeping the safety of tourists in mind, have withdrawn the boating activities. It will resume once the water level decreases and remains stable. However, there will not be any restrictions on entry of visitors to the sanctuary. A good quantum of water is being released from KRS Dam since Friday evening.

Congress-JD(S), BJP work out strategies

Coalition might bide time and delay tomorrow's floor test

Ramesh Kumar Yeddyurappa Kumaraswamy

Bengaluru, July 21 (UNI& Agencies)- With the fate of the H.D. Kumaraswamy-led Coalition Government in Karnataka likely to be decided tomorrow, political parties are preparing their strategy and plan of action for the crucial Trust Vote.

While hectic parleys continued in Coalition circles with leaders of both Congress and JD(S) holding meetings, State BJP Chief B.S. Yeddyurappa too met party MLAs and held discussions on the plan of action when the Assembly resumes tomorrow.

The Coalition leaders are also said to be making last ditch efforts to reach out to rebel Legislators camped in Mumbai, whose resignations have pushed the Government to the brink of collapse. The Coalition, therefore, appears to be gearing up to raise more Constitutional and legal issues to bide time and delay the Floor Test. Yesterday, senior Congress leader Ramalinga Reddy held talks with JD(S) Supremo H.D. Deve Gowda.

Reddy withdrew his resignation earlier this week, and the Coalition is said to be banking on him to lure back other Bengaluru MLAs — S.T. Somashekar, Byrathi Basavaraj and N. Munirathna. But hope looks bleak.

The Coalition also plans to raise the recommendations of the Sarkaria Commission as part of its effort to stonewall Governor Vajubhai Rudabhai Vala's order for the Floor Test.

The Commission has recommended that the Governor can ask the Chief Minister to take a Floor Test within a "reasonable" time, which can mean up to 60 days in special circumstances. And the Coalition argues that this is a special circumstance. The Congress has convened its Legislature Party Meeting today to discuss tomorrow's Confidence Motion.

The run passed through Hardinge Circle, Sub-Urban Bus Stand, Irwin Road, Ashoka Road to reach the starting point.

Not only vegan promotion is done for healthy living but its link to the reduction in carbon foot prints is also explained through the run.

Granny wears 'socks' meant for something else !

London: Earlier this week, 22-year-old Kelsey was left mortified after realising the cute holiday selfie she sent to her folks had a bottle of Durex lubrication hiding in plain sight. The blushes don't stop here. Now, one man has made what we think is an even more excruciating and unfortunate blunder.

The unnamed man, from Japan, discovered that his grandma had come across his, ahem, fleshlights (stimulates the penis into an orgasm), thinking they were a pair of cosy thermal socks. After putting them on, however, she quickly realised they may not have been quite what she was after. The young man, who quickly spotted what had happened, bravely revealed the true purpose of the 'socks.'

'Creepy' mom clutches son's hand, 'blocks out' bride

Washington: A bride has shared a bizarre photograph of her mother-in-law 'blocking' her out of the shot as she holds his hand on their wedding day. The image was shared by the anonymous bride who went on to share further details about her mother-in-law's behaviour. Using the name acciopintje, she wrote: She [mother of the groom] went with him when he got his suit fitted. Afterwards, she sent me a long message detailing how handsome he looked and how she was 'falling in love all over again.'

She mentioned in the same message that she hoped I would 'match' him on the wedding day, meaning she hoped I would look as good as he did. I'm not kidding." She added: "There are photos where she WAS in-between us." The bride said the woman's daughter asked her to move, so her husband could stand together with his new wife. Her response was a sharp, 'I can stand here! I'm his woman, too!'

Zebra Crossing not marked near traffic signal

Sir,

There will always be heavy traffic near the junction connecting peripheral Outer Ring Road and Infosys Road near Bharath Cancer Hospital in the outskirts of Mysuru. Recently, the Traffic Police concerned have introduced traffic signal lights in all the three directions at this junction, just to help the public.

Though this is an improvement over the earlier situation, unfortunately there are no Zebra Crossings marked in all these above three directions. This is causing a lot of confusion among vehicle riders as to 'where to stop the vehicle? whenever they see a stop signal (Red Light).'

Hope, the traffic authorities would make a note of the same and arrange for immediate marking of Zebra Crossings, in all the directions at this junction.

H.N. Vijay

Outrightly rejecting the claims of Amith Devarahatti that he had paid huge sum of money to Tourism Minister S.R. Mahesh for becoming MUDA Chairman, Vijay said that he was appointed by JD(S) Supremo H.D. Deve Gowda, CM H.D. Kumaraswamy and PWD Minister H.D. Revanna, who all know about his services to the party.

Claiming that he was appointed as the Chairman to empower the micro Uppara community, which he belongs to, he said that he and Minister S.R. Mahesh belonged to the same village and are known to each other for years.

Maintaining that there is no money deal with Minister S.R. Mahesh, Vijay said that Minister Mahesh was like his elder brother and there is no money dealings between them.

Tipplers in Kerala raise a glass; form association

Name it All Kerala Madhyapana Anukoola Sangatana (All Kerala Supporters of Alcohol Consumption)

Thiruvananthapuram, July 21 (UNI)- Fed up with "constant harassment" from Police, tipplers in Kerala which has the highest number of guzzlers in the country have formed an association to protect their rights.

Hari, one of the promoters of the association — All Kerala Madhyapana Anukoola Sangatana (All Kerala Supporters of Alcohol Consumption), said it is high time such an organisation was formed in the State.

Two of the promoters stood in front of the Secretariat recently, holding placards demanding that the rights of those taking a drink or two needs to be protected, especially from Police, who they claimed were constantly behind their back, harassing them. They also wanted reduction in the price of Indian-made Foreign Liquor (IMFL).

The association will soon be registered, Hari said. Action should be taken against Police officials who "harass" those from the weaker sections of society, while letting off those affluent, he said.

"Either the Government must ban alcohol or treat those who consume liquor as humans. Most Policemen nab poor labourers, who consume a peg or two after a hard day's work, and treat them as terrorists," he said, adding, they were fed up with the "constant harassment."

Hari alleged Police look the other way at vehicles coming out from luxury hotels. "The Government has been charging high price for liquor while the original price is too low. We pay that much money, but the Police treat us as second class citizens," he said.

When contacted, a Police official said the association is yet to be registered.

"Let them get it official first. It is funny how many and what all types of associations are coming up these days. However, the allegation that Police was being harsh on tipplers, is not right," he said.

He added Police personnel ask those in an inebriated condition to go home instead of falling down somewhere on the road.

Kerala tops the country in liquor consumption despite charging in the highest tax slab in the country. Only the State Government agency is authorised to sell alcohol, beer and wine.

Despite around 200 percent tax on liquor, Kerala tops the country in its consumption and people can be seen waiting patiently in long queues in front of the outlets.

Server problem in CESC offices causing problems to power consumers

Mysuru, July 21 (RKB&DM)- Complaints on server problems in CESC (Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Company) offices came to the fore at the public contact programme that was organised by CESC at its Sub-Divisional office located on Sri Harsha Road here yesterday.

Many power consumers complained that server down problem in CESC offices was causing a lot of inconvenience to power consumers for payment of bills and to get information regarding power issues.

AEE R. Rudresh said that the matter has been brought to the notice of higher authorities and the issue will be discussed once again for finding a solution to the problem.

Some consumers complained of non-issuance of SoA (Statement of Arrears), to which Rudresh said that the problem arose due to staff transfer and now the issue has been sorted out with the appointment of more staff.

A few consumers wanted the CESC to send SMS message to consumers directly about such public contact programme, as such a move will help in a larger participation of consumers. A total of five complaints were registered at the programme. CESC officers Moiddin, Dharanidevi, A.K. Kamaladevi, Mahadevaiah, Basavaraj and others were present.

Can the Three Language Formula be implemented?

By B. Shakira Jabeen

Courtesy: Internet

The Union Government had constituted Education Commission in 1964 under the Chairmanship of Prof. D.S. Kothari to review the entire educational setup and recommend changes. The report touched upon every aspect of education — aims, objectives, structure, syllabus, teaching methods, pay structure, language in education, science, strength of the class, etc.

M.C. Chagla, the then Union Education Minister, hailed the report as the 'Teachers' Magna Carta.' Addressing the issue of language in education, the Commission recommended 'Three Language Formula' as a means to Social and National Integration. A different 'Three Language Formula' had already been recommended by the Central Advisory Board of Education in 1956 and a simplified version of the same was recommended by the Conference of Chief Ministers in 1961.

The National Policy on Education (1964) that came after the Kothari Commission Report made 'Three Language Formula' a policy. Accordingly, all students would study in mother tongue from Class I-IV. In Class V-VIII, the student would study two languages — regional language and English and Hindi depending on the region. The non-Hindi States would make Hindi mandatory and the Hindi States were expected to offer a Southern language.

Hard implementation

The implementation of these recommendations, however, was not uniform across the country. Tamil Nadu felt that the 'Three Language Formula' was a ploy to introduce Hindi into Non-Hindi States and resisted the implementation. Tamil Nadu adopted a two language formula — Tamil and English. Hindi speaking States did not adopt a South Indian language. They too went for a two language formula. Hindi speaking States don't have a need for a South Indian language same as the Southern States do not have a need for Hindi.

Hundreds of languages of the North-East were not mentioned to be studied by the rest of India as language issue was very closely linked with politics of representation in the Parliament. The Committee on Medium of Instruction wrote on the 'Three Language Formula' — "Some States follow only Two Language Formula where as some other States, classical languages like Sanskrit and Arabic are being studied in lieu of Modern Indian languages, some Boards permit European languages like French and German in place of Hindi."

The 'Three Language Formula' exists only in our curriculum documents and other policy statements. In spite of these choices, desired improvement in language skills had not been achieved. The 'Three Language Formula' remained a policy which was not practiced by most States. Again the intended overall development of education did not take place.

Hindi imposition

The Dr.K. Kasturirangan Committee Draft Report of 2019 made a subtle change in the 'Three Language Formula.' It made Hindi mandatory in non-Hindi speaking States. (Later the Hindi mandatory rule was withdrawn after Southern States raised objection) The Draft Report removed the necessity to study a Southern language for the Hindi speaking States. Instead, it inserted the term 'modern Indian language.' Modern Indian Languages are the ones listed under the VIII Schedule of the Constitution of India. Thus a student in a Hindi speaking area could study Hindi as First language, Second language and English.

Disadvantage for regional students

The 'Three Language Formula' would be a two language formula for the Hindi speaking States and burden the non-Hindi students with an extra language. Even if they were to opt for the regional language as First and Second languages along with English, their proficiency in the regional language is not useful outside the State and their proficiency in English can't be compared with the Hindi of Hindi speakers.

This would create disadvantage for the regional language students as many national exams are conducted in Hindi and English. The Southern students cannot opt for English under Modern Indian Languages as it is not listed under the VIII Schedule. If the proficiency in one of the administrative languages is the criterion, then the non-Hindi speaking students are at a disadvantage. The altered draft allows for more flexible changeover in languages but makes the desired proficiency level subjective.

At this juncture two questions need to be asked:

- Why the Union Governments, irrespective of political party, try to impose Hindi on the non-Hindi speaking States?
- Why do the non-Hindi speaking States resist this imposition?

The answer to the first question lies in the fact that Union Governments have refused to believe that Hindi is not India's National language. Multilingual India has 'Official Language' and 'Associate Official Language'. The dream to see Hindi as the National language is based on the European idea of the role of language in a Nation with one language, one religion and one race. The other basis of repeated attempts to impose Hindi in non-Hindi areas is the Constitutional provisions made for the development of Hindi. Hindi was to replace English in all domains of language use.

The answer to the second question points to the linguistic identity that has been built since the beginning of 20th century. The huge political identity built on this otherness of language and race lead to the formation of linguistic States. The linguistic States are grappling to retain the regional languages in various domains of language use.

Competition with regional languages

Mother tongues and English are competing with the regional languages for space. Hindi has not been able to shake off the North Indian cultural baggage. Hindi does belong to the Indo-Aryan group of languages — the structure of which is very different from the Dravidian languages. Yet it is necessary to remember that the present monolingual State of Tamil Nadu was once a multilingual space.

The Kothari Commission or the Kasturirangan Commission reports are comprehensive on the overall development of Education in India. 'Three Language Formula' is one aspect of both the reports. The imposition of Hindi and the resistance to it both fall into the same language paradigm- the Western/monolingual paradigm.

Multilingualism for diversity

What India needs is the acceptance of multilingualism for the diversity to continue in all domains. People in India have chosen languages in education according to the changing goals. What we need to concentrate on is the effective teaching/ learning of languages -- regional language and English in South, regional language and English in the Hindi belt, regional language and English in the North East.

This has been the practice too — except that the Hindi speaking States have resisted English. Knowing only one language is a handicap. Make Hindi an option all over India. It is time we paid attention to increasing the language proficiency level of students. Irrespective of the language formulae followed, our students do not exhibit the necessary language skills. Policies, infrastructure, syllabus, materials all become ineffective in the face of age-old teaching methodology.

Water release amidst shortage irks farmers

While Gejjaganahalli farmers protest inside a dry canal; Farmers of Nanjangud protest inside Kapila River

Mandya/Mysuru, July 21 (VNS)- Even as the MLAs of all three major political parties in the State are busy formulating strategies either to safeguard the State Government or topple it, the farmers of old Mysuru region, especially those from Mandya and Mysuru districts have taken to streets in protest against the release of water to Tamil Nadu from KRS and Kabini reservoirs.

The farming community, especially in Mandya, has been outraged with the State Government's decision to release water to Tamil Nadu especially when the State is suffering from severe drought deficit rainfall. They alleged that at the time when farmers have been demanding release of water to safeguard the standing crops, the State Government had released water to Tamil Nadu.

While a few farmers staged a dharna by blocking the Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway near Induvalu in Mandya and also in Maddur, the others took to extreme step of getting into the channels in protest against the release of water.

The farmers in Mandya have also threatened to boycott MLAs of the district. They alleged that at the time when there is a need for the representatives to be with protesting farmers, the MLAs were busy relaxing in resorts. The protestors also expressed their displeasure over Mandya MP Sumalatha Ambarish stating even she had not visited the Constituency.

The protestors raised slogans against the State Government, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, and Minor Irrigation and District in-charge Minister C.S. Puttaraju.

The outflow from KRS dam was 5,810 cusecs out of which 2,611 cusecs was released to the channels and 3,199 cusecs to the river, yesterday. The farmers were of the opinion that the 3,199 cusecs was being released to Tamil Nadu.

Meanwhile, a few farmers staged a protest inside a dry canal at Gejjaganahalli against the release of water from Kabini reservoir to Tamil Nadu. The farmers said that while the authorities had failed to release water to the canals for the past three years, all of a sudden, Kapila River water was being released to Tamil Nadu.

Meanwhile, Nanjangud farmers staged a half naked protest by getting into Kapila River. They alleged that when there was a severe rain deficit and shortage of water for farming activities, the authorities had released water to Tamil Nadu.

The outraged farmers, who have threatened to intensify their protest, have demanded to stop the release of water Tamil Nadu immediately. They are of the opinion that despite Cauvery Water Management Authority's decision asking to release water only after storing sufficient water at the reservoir, officials have turned a blind eye to directions and have released the water to Tamil Nadu on State Government's order.

Kodagu receives moderate rainfall

Landslide sweeps away under-construction house; vehicles damaged

Madikeri, July 21 (PS&VNS)- At last, the farmers of Cauvery Catchment Area can breathe a sigh of relief as Kodagu began to receive rainfall as predicted by the India Meteorological Department (IMD) till July 22 (tomorrow).

With IMD predicting heavy rainfall, the District Administration has issued a 'Red Alert' in Kodagu.

The landslide was so intense that it swept away an under-construction house as a result of which the authorities have instructed people not to take up any construction works.

The landslide on NH-275 also affected vehicle movement for sometime. However, the traffic movement resumed after the Rescue and Rehabilitation Team and Police cleared the road. Heavy rainfall damaged three parked vehicles on Thithimathi-Mysuru State Highway yesterday evening after a tree fell on them disrupting traffic for about three hours. Landslide was also reported at the old private bus stand in Madikeri this morning. However, no damage was reported. It is also expected that 1,000 cusecs of water from Harangi Dam would be released to KRS later in the day. However, there is no official confirmation in this regard.

In the last 24 hours, Kodagu received an average rainfall of 30.40 mm. While, Madikeri recorded the highest rainfall of 53.25 mm, Virajpet recorded 19.93 mm and Somwarpet recorded 18.3 mm rainfall. The water level at Harangi Dam this morning was 2,825.45 ft (maximum 2.859 ft). Inflow was 1,673 cusecs and outflow to the River was 30 cusecs and 20 cusecs for the canals.

2K run to promote vegetarianism

Explaining about vegan life style, organisers said "Vegetarians do not eat meat, fish, or poultry. On the other hand vegans, besides being vegetarian, do not even use other animal products and by-products."

Those who follow the vegan lifestyle avoid use of eggs, dairy products, honey, fur, silk, wool, jelly, ice cream, etc. Also, leather articles, cosmetics and soaps derived from animal products are shunned by vegans.

In fact, the true Jains are ethical vegans since they not only follow a vegan diet, but extend the vegan philosophy of animal compassion into their lives and oppose the use of animals and animal products for any purpose. They also believe that industrial farming of animals is cruelty and a practice that is environmentally damaging and unsustainable, organisers claimed.

"Strict Jains do not eat any root vegetables like potatoes because smaller insects are killed in their harvest and the vegetable itself have bacteria. Moreover, cooking or eating at night is also discouraged among the Jains because insects are attracted to the light at night," they said.

K. Varahamurthy, Dr. K.R. Vasanth Kumar, Chennabasava, Divya Srinivas, Rajan Baghmar, Dharmchand Mutha, Sunil Patwa, Prakash Gandhi, Goutham Gandhi and others were present. The winners of the 2K marathon were Cheluvegowda and Arun. Consolation prizes were given to women runners Meera and Rinchana.

No boating

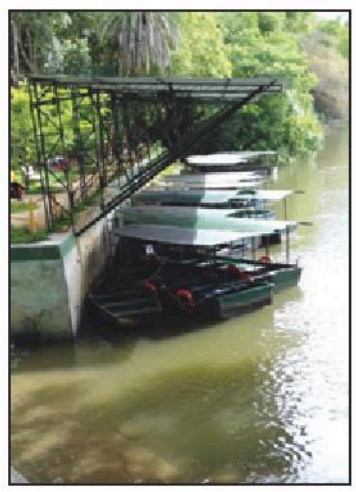
Ranganathittu Bird Sanctuary RFO Puttamadegowda said that due to increase in water flow and rise in water level, the tourists are unable to go for boating and hence the boating services have been suspended. However, the birds were safe despite increase in the water level, he added.

Meanwhile, sources said that there will be a threat to the bird sanctuary only if over one lakh cusecs of water is released from the KRS Reservoir which had happened in the early 90s when more than two lakh cusecs of water was released from KRS.



Cloud-seeding from July 24

Meanwhile, amidst opposition from the residents of Kodagu, the State Government will begin cloud-seeding from Mysuru from July 24. The Government is spending Rs.93 crore on cloud-seeding for 2019-20 and 2020-21.

The government has already received clearance from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) to fly two aircraft that will release aerosol (silver iodide or sodium chloride) into the clouds to stimulate the precipitation process and form rain.

Officials of the Department of Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) are in the final stages of planning the cloud-seeding exercise. The operation will start from Mysuru and will be carried out across all districts in the Old Mysore region.

The officials will inspect the flights tomorrow (July 22) and the cloud-seeding exercise will start from Wednesday. The aircraft will be stationed at Mysore Airport. In 2017, cloud-seeding project generated 2.51 tmcft of additional water and rainfall was 27.90 percent above the natural rainfall. This time, authorities expect precipitation to increase by about 30 percent due to cloud-seeding.

Last time, the Government ordered 300 hours of aircraft flying for a 60-day period. This time, it has been increased to 400 hours for 90 days, officials said. However, residents and weather experts from Kodagu have opposed the cloud-seeding operations. "It has already begun raining in Kodagu and there is no need of cloud-seeding." Such knee-jerk measures, they said, will not address the meteorological variations in Kodagu.

Rain damage in Kodagu

With the rains catching up in Kodagu district, three parked vehicles including a jeep, a Tata Ace and a car were completed damaged after tree fell on them on Mysuru-Thithimathi State Highway at around 3.30 pm yesterday. As a result, traffic movement on the highway was disrupted for about three hours. Fortunately, no casualties were reported as none were present inside the vehicles.

The traffic movement on the highway resumed at about 6.45 pm after the damaged vehicles and trees were removed by the Police with the help tamed elephants and local villagers.

Before adjourning the House on Friday night, Speaker K.R. Ramesh Kumar made it clear that finality would be put to the motion of confidence moved by Kumaraswamy on Monday and the matter would not be prolonged under any circumstances, to which the government agreed.

Meanwhile, if the BJP, which is waiting in the wings to form its government, finds success in hatching its plan, the Congress-JD(S) coalition will be down to 98 when Kumaraswamy takes the Floor Test.

According to sources, the plan is to get some legislators of the ruling coalition to abstain during the Trust Vote. The coalition has been on the edge after Congress' Kagwad Legislator Shrimant Patil informed Speaker Ramesh Kumar that he was unwell and will not be able to attend the remaining part of the ongoing session till July 26.

Also, there is uncertainty on whether Congress' Bellary legislator B. Nagendra will make it for the Trust Vote. He is undergoing treatment in a hospital amid speculation that he may join the rebel camp. Meanwhile, the lone BSP MLA from Kollegal N. Mahesh today said that he will not be attending the vote of confidence and will stay neutral.

Booktalk

'Translating timeless poems'

By N. Niranjan Nikam

Title: Caught in the World of Binaries — Selected poems of Prof. K.S. Nisar Ahmed
Edited by: C.N. Ramachandran & M.S. Raghunath
Pages: 252
Price: Rs.310
Publisher: Manipal University Press

These are troubled times (when was it ever not!) when we are caught in the world of binaries. As Mark B. Baer, who writes on Empathy and Relationships, writes in Psychology Today, "When Binary Thinking is involved, Polarisation follows" and goes on to say "Anxiety from a lack of toleration for ambiguity leads to binary thinking."

These thoughts came to my mind when I read, "Caught in the World of Binaries" which is a book that is very fresh and new, simply because of the effort that has gone into editing the book. This book contains the selected poems of Nadoja and Nityotsava poet Prof. Kokkare Hosahalli Shekh Haider Nisar Ahmed, popular as Prof. K.S. Nisar Ahmed, which is translated from Kannada into English.

Editors C.N. Ramachandran and M.S. Raghunath have selected 100 poems from the mind-boggling 600 poems written by the great poet till now. Though the Editors themselves have translated many poems, still there are 11 translators including the likes of V.K. Gokak and A.K. Ramanujan.

When one reads the introduction, the title seems to be apt as they take the poem "To Be With You and Yet Not to be Like You" to talk about the present times.

"The poem from which these lines are taken vividly describes the condition of an individual belonging to a minority and living in an "alien" society and it moves on to conclude, "when you inspect my spilt blood for the corpuscles of/nationalism,/right in my own presence,/to face it with a gentle smile/well, that is a very hard job," write Ramachandran and Raghunath.

Then they go on to add, "Since the poet happens to be a Muslim, this poem can be misread as a "Muslim voice of protest in a Hindu majority society" and be given a particular political orientation, forgetting that it was written in 1968. Hence, it can also be read as a "Hindu voice in Muslim majority nations," or an "Indian voice in the US" and so on.

The book is divided into five sections — 1. Reflections on Time, Nature and Man; 2. Cultural Confrontations, 3. Portraits, 4. On Love and Poetry and 5. Irony and Satire.

The Editors conclude the introduction with a quote from the poet himself, "Only when you understand your own religion (or culture or language), you really understand your own religion (or culture or language)." He (Nisar Ahmed) and his works are living examples of true pluralism."

And as the Editors Ramachandran and Raghunath say in the acknowledgement "If one is going through these poems, the non-Kannada readers find there a mature mind contemplating on contemporary ethos and exploring the possibility of a healthy pluralistic society, we shall consider our efforts amply rewarded."

Having read 'Seemateetana Sirivanta Suggi (selected poems) of Prof. Nisar Ahmed in Kannada before interviewing him, I can only say, read each translated poem slowly and understand the great mind of the poet who has penned those famous poems 'Nityotsava', 'Kurigalu Saar Kurigalu,' which still lingers on every Kannadiga's lips, even after 60 years.

WORD OF THE DAY

Auxiliary

Pronunciation: awg-ZILL-yuh-ree.

Meaning: Offering or providing help; functioning in a subsidiary capacity; accompanying another verb and typically expressing person, number, mood, or tense.
Origin: Auxiliary is used in a wide range of capacities in English to describe a person or thing that assists another. A fire department may bring in auxiliary units, for example, to battle a tough blaze, or a sailboat may be equipped with auxiliary engines to supply propulsion when the wind disappears. In grammar, an auxiliary verb assists another (main) verb to express person, number, mood, or tense, such as have in "They have been informed." The Latin source of auxiliary is auxilium, meaning "help."
Example: "And meantime I had an auxiliary interest which had never paled yet, never lost its novelty for me since I had been in Arthur's kingdom: the behaviour—born of nice and exact subdivisions of caste—of chance passers-by toward each other." — Mark Twain

THE ODD WORD

Afreet

A powerful jinn or demon in Arabian and Muslim mythology.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A turn up for the books

Meaning: An unexpected piece of good fortune.

Origin: Since the 1820s, or thereabouts, the term 'turn-up' has been used to mean 'a surprise; an example of good fortune'. The reference was to cards or dice, which are 'turned up' by chance. Specifically, the 'turn up' was referred to in the game of cribbage. At the start of a game of cribbage a member of one team cuts the pack and a member of the other turns up the top card. If this is a Jack, the second team gets extra points - called 'two for his heels'. Holding the Jack of the suit that is turned up also merits a point - 'one for his nibs', the Jack being one of the 'Royal' cards and 'nibs' being slang for 'a person of importance'. 'Turn up' was defined by John Camden Hotten in 1859, in A Dictionary of Modern Slang, Cant and Vulgar Words: Turn up: An unexpected slice of luck. That's straightforward enough, but why would a turn up be 'for the books'? Books can be cooked, one can go by them and you can be in someone's bad books, but why would you have a turn up for them?
The phrase was originally 'a turn up for the book'. At 18th and 19th century English race meetings, when bets were placed the punter's name and wager were written down in a notebook. Not unreasonably, this process was called 'making a book'.

CRYPTOQUIP

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
